Description

About Us - Discover the Difference The Sales Recruitment Network is a boutique recruitment organisation with a national reach. Established in 1997 and staffed entirely by former Sales Directors and Managers our unique proven, structure enables us to take comprehensive, meaningful briefs from our clients. This ensures that any candidate we present will fit your criteria; if we can't find suitable candidates we won't put anyone in front of you. Whilst focussing on sales and marketing we can take on other briefs and apply the same diligent approach ensuring that all of your recruitment process is as painless as possible. Because of our specialist backgrounds we can ensure that we can find the right people who will: Fit your Culture Have the skill sets that you require Match your Management Style Work well within your team Working to your brief we can, 'head-hunt', conduct searches using national or specialised job boards and manage targeted advertising. We can also help to write job descriptions, to construct packages, undertake psychometric profiling, carry out background checks and conduct initial interviews, all at a highly a competitive rate. We will work closely with you and your internal recruitment team to significantly reduce the considerable resources you have to invest in finding people, enabling you to get on with running your business.
