We recognize how difficult it is to find a prompt and professional local electrician, which is why our electrical engineers hold all of the essential industry credentials and qualifications, ensuring that you receive a safe and professional service. In addition to this all of our London electricians are City and Guilds qualified to the highest standards and follow the IET Wiring Regulations to the most recent Edition BS 7671. We are also covered by a £2 million public liability insurance policy. Not only do we take pleasure in the quality of our work, but we also take pride in our client service. You will receive first-class customer service from the moment you contact us, whether by phone or online. A member of our staff is also available seven days a week to provide free guidance and answer any queries you may have. (It's no wonder that we have a high percentage of repeat customers!)
